I.F. Chancellor Candidates Reflect on Victory of asgeir9-Warendrop Campaign

asgeir9, the incumbent chancellor of the Imperial Federation, thoroughly defeated his one opponent Linermaster in the I.F.'s December 2024 chancellorship election, winning a grand 68% of the 44 valid votes cast on Dec. 22. The Chronicler sat down with both candidates and their respective running mates to get their thoughts on how the election had gone.

Unlike previous elections, the December 2024 election only had two major candidates: asgeir9 and Linermaster. When asked about their election predictions, the can-

Imperial Brewing Co. pub at 3 Broom St, Arlington, Karydian Union

New I.B.C. Pub Opens in Arlington, Karydian Union, I.F.

the_mc_docctor, a citizen of Maugate, I.F., opened a new pub in Arlington, Karydian Union, on Tuesday, Dec. 31. The new establishment, part of his Imperial Brewing Co. franchise, is already bringing in lots of customers to Arlington.

The new pub is located on 3 Broom St. and sells a small array of drinks, including red wine and vodka. But a unique brew only being sold in the Arlington location - and not in any other I.B.C location - is wheatbeer.

"The reason I have chosen to limit wheatbeer sales in the KU is because I like to get valuable didates all agreed that they had thought the asgeir9-Warendrop campaign would win.

"I thought we were going to win because we actually got stuff done," said Warendrop, the reelected I.F. vice chancellor.

Linermaster, who had served as an I.F. senator from the Karydian Union, also predicted an asgeir9-Warendrop victory, but said that despite the electoral loss, he had still won in another way.

"I expected Asgeir to win, but I got people talking about the issues I ran on, which is a victory in itself," Linermaster said.

Both sides told the Chronicler that because asgeir9 and Warendrop were more well known among I.F. citizens than Linermaster or Fatbeetle, the incumbent ticket had the advantage of name recognition.

"[It's] mostly name recognition," Linermaster said. "[asgeir9] played a lot longer and talks in public spaces a lot longer."

asgeir9 also told the Chronicler that he thought name recognition and incumbency had helped him and Warendrop win reelection.

"I presume name recognition and me being incumbent helped," asgeir9 said. "But I'd like to believe people reelected me because they like me and what has been done during my chancellorship."

While the two chancellor candidates agreed that asgeir9 and Warendrop had enjoyed the advantage of name recognition, they didn't see eye to eye on Linermaster's campaigning on democracy. Warendrop said that Linermaster's advocacy of democratizing the I.F. had hurt him electorally.

"[Linermaster's] policy about democratising the states, I think, bit him a bit," Warendrop said. "It's mostly that people at least seem to share my view that Democracy on the state level tends to just not work."

When asked about these comments from Warendrop, Linermaster said that he was skeptical of how hurtful his campaigning on democracy actually was in the election.

"I'm not totally sure that my democracy stance hurt me that much," Linermaster said. "It felt like it was a vocal minority that pushed back on that."

customer feedback and I base my entire company upon consumer input!" the_mc_docctor told the Chronicler. Customers can buy two bottles of wheat-beer for one diamond.

the_mc_docctor said he had opened an I.B.C. location in Arlington for a variety of reasons, such as available and affordable commercial lots and heavy foot traffic in the city.

"There were a couple deciding factors [in opening a location in Arlington] such as: Arlington property is cheap, lots of foot traffic," the_mc_docctor said. "And most importantly I currently have not been able to get responses from other townspeople in the KU other than Arlington."

the_mc_docctor also said that another reason for his setting up in Arlington was the thought that the city was the Karydian Union's capital, which it is not - San Rafael is the Karydian Union's capital.

Korvenov, Arlington's leader and duke, said that he's happy with the new I.B.C. pub and hopes it'll bring in more attention to his city.

"More business means more attention towards Arlington, more attention means possible customers and future shop owners,” Korvenov told the Chronicler. “My goal is to have Arlington prosper, [the new I.B.C. pub] vitalizes the continent with activity and it benefits the IF greatly.”

The new pub has indeed brought more attention to Arlington - the_mc_docctor said that the sheer number of customers coming in has kept him restocking his chests constantly.

“I have had many customers,” the_mc_docctor said. “It’s hard to keep that friggin shop stocked.”

The pressure of keeping the pub’s chests filled has even led the_mc_docctor to consider hiring employees.

“If [my pub] becomes more successful I will have to start hiring some people in the KU to help restock, as it takes about 1 and 1/2 IRL hours for me to complete brewing restocks and deliver them to the KU,” the_mc_docctor said.

Ultimately, it seems that most citizens in the Karydian Union are as happy with the new pub as the_mc_docctor is. Rangero124, who worries about potential competition between his Arlington tavern and the_mc_docctor’s, still feels positive about the new brewery addition to the city’s businesses.

“The announcement for the new brewery came while my new tavern was still in construction,” Rangero124 told the Chronicler. “And while competition may lower my sales just a bit, it’s nice to have another brewer in the area.”

Those who want to stop by the_mc_docctor’s Arlington pub can do so by taking New Callisto’s onedest rail line to the city and typing “/dest karydia mayguow a.”

When asked about how the asgeir9-Warendrop victory will affect the I.F., Warendrop said that I.F. citizens should expect to see continued economic growth.

“Really I expect [our reelection] to be the start of economic growth and the shedding of the common insult we get of ‘Del-pooria’ as we become more economically productive,” Warendrop said.

When asked the same question, Linermaster’s running mate Fatbeetle said that nothing much will change for average citizens.

“I think not much will change,” Fatbeetle said. “Maybe some legislation [will be passed], but nothing will affect the average citizen.”

Linermaster also expressed skepticism on whether much good will come with asgeir9 and Warendrop’s reelection.

“I think they will work on infrastructure but I dont have high hopes for the other two issues [democracy and economy],” Linermaster said.
